

Climate Justice Small Grants Programme – FAQs

1. Who can apply for the grants?

Grassroots and community-based organizations, women-led groups, youth-led initiatives, local environmental justice movements, and other civil society actors working on climate justice or environmental accountability are eligible to apply.

2. Are unregistered groups eligible to apply?

Yes, unregistered groups can apply. However, applicants must demonstrate legitimacy and community support for their initiative.

3. Can we propose activities not listed in the Budget Template?

Absolutely. The suggested Budget Categories are not final or compulsory. Applicants can substitute, add, or remove items based on their project activities, as long as the budget is realistic and justified.

4. What is the maximum grant amount?

Typically, small grants range from USD 1,000–5,000.

5. What is the expected project duration?

Projects should typically be implemented within 3–12 months. Exceptions can be discussed during the application review.

6. How do we submit an application?

Applications are submitted via email (cemauganda@gmail.com) as specified in the call for proposals. All required documents, including the completed Proposal Template and Budget Template, must be submitted before the deadline.

7. What documents are required for submission?

- Completed Proposal Template
 - Completed Budget Template
 - Proof of registration (if applicable)
 - Bank details (if shortlisted)
 - Any supporting documentation (letters of support, previous project reports, etc.)

8. Can we submit applications in languages other than English?

Proposals should be submitted in English to ensure all reviewers can evaluate them fairly.

9. How will applications be evaluated?

Applications are reviewed by an independent committee based on:

- Relevance to climate justice and environmental accountability
 - Feasibility of proposed activities
 - Inclusion of women, youth, and marginalized communities
 - Sustainability and potential impact
 - Clear and transparent budgeting

10. When will successful applicants be notified?

Applicants will be notified by email and/or phone after the evaluation process, as specified in the call for proposals.

11. What reporting is required if we receive a grant?

Grantees are required to submit:

- Mid-term progress report
 - Final narrative and financial report
 - Supporting documentation such as photos, attendance sheets, and receipts

12. Can we request funds for multiple small activities in one project?

Yes, but all activities must be clearly described, justified in the proposal, and reflected in the budget.
